student life.

The local airport in Curcaco ends right on one of the country's beautiful beaches. Alain Blanchard has the opportunity to see these small planes land and take off everyday near his home on the island.

New students flock in from around the globe to attend Rollins. With their first homes thousands of miles away they must learn to adjust to a new country and lifestyle. Many of them arrive here already well equipped with the English language, but are able to impress other Rollins students with their native languages. Rollins has many international students that come from as far as Germany, England, and Japan. By integrating international students into the Rollins culture, it helps to make the entire student body global citizens. Students learn to appreciate those from other backgrounds and explore their cultures.

all ABROAD

Daniela Becker of Germany and Heather Bromilow of England met this year at Rollins. They became such close friends that Heather went back home with Daniela over winter break.

The Beach Boys sang about it, but Nea Fowle is actually from Bermuda. She lives in a place most people dream of vacationing.

Georgi of Columbia and his friends, Steven Abernathy and Ariel Krieger, show off their balancing acts in the hallway.

Sergio Abril celebrates bid day with his brothers and new members of X-Club.

Wendy Petrik's hometown is Berlin, Germany. She kept her German spirit by naming her dog Berlin.

Dive Into A New Beginning. Dive Into A New Beginning.

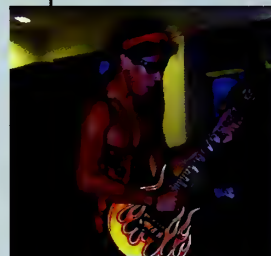

Dressing up in 80s attire is always fun, especially for the First Year Orientation Karaoke Competition.

First Year classes compete to be the best at volleyball. So warm up your serve, and get ready for a spike.

It is the week that every new Rollins student dreams of all summer long, freshmen orientation. After receiving the information about the week over the summer, there is so much anticipation for it to begin. Explorations, with their team lead by Doug Little, spent countless hours preparing for orientation. The peer mentors rigorously trained for the week and were waiting anxiously to meet their new mentees. The week progressed with students laughing their way through with a hypnotist and trivia. Artistic and athletic talents were displayed at karaoke and volleyball tournaments. The class of 2010 sure has a ton of talent!

These first year students are eager to show their class spirit and wow the crowd at the karaoke competition.

These boys have no fear when it comes to performing in public.

Karaoke brought out the best talents of the class of 2010.

Posing pretty are the winners of this years talent show.

The Activism 101 RCC gets excited to participate in a day of community service. This class made its way to a school to help with a variety of tasks.

Even the professors could not help but to participate during the week. The YMCA never looked so good as it did during the talent show.

At the talent show, a guest comedian amused the audience with her witty comments.

We Call it Home

It is the first priority of all students to decorate their dorm rooms and make them as homely as possible, but after looking into some rooms, it makes you wonder what kind of interesting home life they had. It is easy to find walls cluttered with pictures or covered with posters, but some students find that a bit too ordinary for their taste. For some a pet squirrel is the best thing to liven up a somber room and for others hanging a hammock between beds brings back memories from home. Many students find the easiest way to express their creativity is through the decorations of their room.

The statue of Ben Franklin on campus got a lot of attention on most nights, from hugs to kisses and even to displacements onto Mills Lawn. Junior Sara Patrick and sophomore Alyssa Rabun pose with the beloved Ben.

There is never a dull moment in on-campus dorm life, a fact that can come as quite a shock for many first-year students not yet adjusted to the differences in the college lifestyle and schedule. Pinehurst residents find new uses for school-issued mattresses, testing their sledding skills down the cottage's main stair case.

Elizabeth Hall is one place where a nightly crowd of students gathers into the wee hours of the night, ordering Domino's, talking, smoking, writing papers, or planning what the night will bring about.

Rollins Outdoor Club residents got creative with their nightly activities. Austin Connors puts rafting tubes to good use in the hallways of ROC.

Mills Lawn offers students a place for many nighttime activities when the Florida weather is just right. Sophomore Tyler Maddox concentrates intently on practicing his golf swing under the watchful eye of his friends.

Walking around the Rollins campus after dark, you would begin to wonder if students ever actually went to sleep! Students' involvement in activities extends well into the nighttime, and there is always something interesting and unexpected going on under the moonlight (or dorm light). Much of the student population can vouch for pulling all-nighters for every reason BUT homework! From mattress sledding down the staircase of Pinehurst, to jogging around Lake Virginia, to dress-up dance parties in dorm rooms, Rollins students know how to find fun activities after classes and homework are finished each day.

An interesting detail about Kim's car is that it's a 1995 Ford
 Taurus. It's a really nice car,
 and it's a really nice car.

No matter who
 a steering wheel cover always adds interest to your car. Kim's leopard print cover shows her spunky side.

(Below) Kim Lucy
 and her 1995
 Grand Prix. This car was partly a gift from her dad in high school.

This cute rearview mirror decoration is a lei/highschool graduation tassel mix. It's always fun to have a bit of cheer at eye level.

The trunk is usually filled with random objects.
 Kim keeps her favorite beach possessions near like her colorful skim board and folding chair.
 Other occupants have included crew team members.

Five years ago, Kim's then-boyfriend took this pile of nails out of his pocket. Yes, FIVE years ago.
 Talk about random.

Audacious Autos

Linette loves to jewel up her radio. Her rearview mirror also sports the dazzling beauty of crystals.

Unique license plates adorn many cars. Linette's has a secret message that is only understood among friends.

Linette keeps shopping items in her car. Here is a Chinese lantern that she will hang in her Sutton apartment. She is also learning the Chinese language, Mandarin.

Linette Davis and her 2000 ..... She loves to jet around and go shopping or to church in her car.

Anything is hangable in a car. This unique "air freshener" is actually a Chinese good luck charm made out of soap.

This dent in Linette's car is no ordinary dent. It was caused from a guy that she had previously RUN OVER.

Cars are abundant at Rollins. With the frustration of minimal parking it is obvious that almost all upperclassmen and some freshman have a car. Cars are not just a way to get from here to there. They are a personal expression of a person and several good memories and interesting possessions. All cars have some story behind them, whether it be the way you begged your parents for it or you chose the color blue because it is your favorite color. All cars hold personal touches. Funny stickers on the windows, crazy steering wheel covers, CDs galore strewn around. It isn't just the transportation that is valued in a car, it is the collection of mementos it holds.

FASHION Accessories

While styles like short dresses, layering, leggings, and longer shirts are still popular around campus, lately the focus of fashion has mainly been on the accessories. Belts, shoes, sunglasses, bags, headbands and jewelry are what completes an outfit. Now, even cell phones, cameras and ipods are being used to show one's sense of style.

Caffeine for

Between 6 am practices, 8 am classes, and those infamous all nighters one mandatory component to making it through college is caffeine. In order to be awake and alert when running on little sleep students rely heavily on this life saver. Anything from coffee, to tea, to soda pop, you are sure to find a plethora of it being consumed by Rollins students.

Winter Park Feature:

Pita Pit
and O'Boys Barbeque

The start of the school year welcomed not only new faces to the Rollins campus life, but also new places to experience a change from campus cuisine. The grand-opening of Pita Pit right next to campus, as well as the introduction of O'Boys Barbeque a few blocks away, opened up more Rollins-friendly locales for students to habit.

The Winter Park Pita Pit's late-night hours (open until 3am) appealed to both late-night studiers and students returning from a night out wanting slightly healthier fare than the usual.

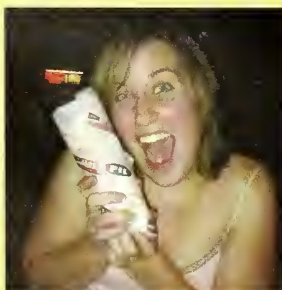

For those interested in a more country-style environment, O'Boys Barbeque offered students big screen TV's, smoke-cooked pork, and tasty corn-nuggets. The restaurant featured "Rollins Night" each Wednesday for karaoke, sports entertainment, and a DJ.

The comfy shell-shaped booths at O'Boys were a hit for large groups of friends or smaller gatherings such as freshman Joleena Tobiere and sophomore Sarah Pantages above.

ollins College is the one place where students, parents, and alumni can gather together as a family. All of these are a vital part of what makes this campus lively. Without the support of alumni, the campus would be lost. Without the support of parents, the students would too be lost. Each plays its own key role on campus and interacts with each other. Families of students get to have their own family weekend with fun activities planned for everyone to enjoy. Alumni flock back for special events to reunite with old college friends. Everyone fits together like peas in a pod.

A Piece of the PUZZLE

Members of Harpoon, Rollins' favorite band, Frank Joseph ('75), Scott Hall ('74, '75 MBA), Steve Mutschler ('75, '76 MBA), and Chris Wuerger reunite at a celebration during Alumni Week.

Alumni Sheila Abbott Musante ('80), Kitty Wingard ('75), Katie Noyes Milligan ('76, '81 MBA), and Jo Gawthrop ('76) gather to reminisce.

Alumni from the Tars Baseball Team decide to give the current team a run for their money. The audience enjoyed watching the alumni and students square off in this challenge between past and future.

Homecoming

With Homecoming being relatively new to Rollins, SGA decided to take an active role in planning events for current students rather than having events only for alumni, planned by the Alumni Relations office. The theme of the week was "I Love the 80's" that was inspired by a Ferris Bueller quote, "How could I be expected to handle school on a day like this?" Each day during the week was themed a different dress up day like Twin Tuesday, Wacky Tacky Wednesday, and Friday which was a Rollins spirit day. On Thursday, during common hour, Football was brought Rollins with the first annual Students vs Faculty & Staff Flag Football Game. The Faculty & Staff coaches were Mark Freeman and Ann Marie Varga, Student Coaches Logan O'Connor and Flora Capaldi. It was close but the The Faculty/Staff team managed to make an impressive victory. At the end of the week was Rollins first ever Homecoming dance which also was themed "I love the 80's" which made people turn out in some very colorful 80's outfits. There was a live band, beer & wine garden for 21+, movie screen, inflatable guitars, and glow necklace. Rollins Dancers sponsored costume and dance contests during the event, while WPRK DJed. The Homecoming court was determined by votes placed earlier in the week by the students. Two girls and two guys were selected for each grade level, the Senior class had 3 girls and guys since 1 couple would be crowned King and Queen. The King and Queen, Nick Reynolds and Lara Bues received gift baskets of items donated from Park Avenue vendors.

Snowed in is an annual fun-filled event that incorporates something that Florida is don't usually see (SNOW!) with other foods and activities that winter is known for. This year the Cornell Campus Center had smores, hot chocolate and nachos to eat, while massages and the opportunity to kareoke and play casino games was provided. Multiple Student Organizations are involved in this always looked forward to event!

Work-study students Rick Mingione, Patrick McKelvey, Cece Harper and Jessica Dillon, make Chase Hall their home. These students are dedicated to promoting a diversified and involved campus.

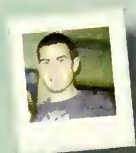

The upstairs lounge in Chase was recently redecorated and re-named The Fox Hole. This lively atmosphere was conducive to productive group meetings.

Chase Hall is home to many offices promoting student affairs at Rollins. The Dean of Student Affairs, Donna Lee, is a welcoming face when you walk in. The Office of Multicultural Affairs promotes diversity among the Rollins community. Its goal is to provide programs and services that promote a diverse campus and a humanitarian world. Camp Alliance, Cultural Action Committee (CAC), and IMPACT, among other programs, were created to enrich the local community at Rollins and spread diversity awareness to the globe. The Office of Student Involvement and Leadership (OSIL) is housed in Chase. OSIL oversees involvement and leadership opportunities for Rollins students and is in charge of all student organizations. Classes are taught by OSIL educators, like Foundations of Leadership, Hunger and Homelessness and Winter Park Fellowship. OSIL strives to promote an active campus ready for the future in the "real" world. The Office of Community Engagement promotes service projects like Jump, Engage! Weekly, and Holiday FunFest. Service, civic engagement, and activism are important to this office and an active role in the community is encouraged. The Office for Health Promotions supplies the Rollins campus with resources for healthy living and promotes REACH, Rollins Education About Campus Health. Many more groups are in Chase, all dedicated to a positive Rollins community. Chase Hall is chock-full of educators bringing Rollins together in a great way for the betterment of society, locally and globally.

This hallway bulletin board was put up in the hallway by the Office of Community Engagement. Its meaningful quotes remind students and faculty alike of the importance of service learning within the community.

Make the Connection

Administrative Assistant, Rachel Luce and Jessica Woods are two Graduate Assistants working for a Chase Hall office. As Graduate Assistants they work at Rollins while earning their graduate degrees.

The beauty of Chase Hall is a reflection of what is inside. Housed in this hall are all the programs dedicated to enriching the Rollins campus and community.

Along with the Office of Multicultural Affairs, Student Involvement, and Community Engagement among others, Chase Hall is also home to the Office of the Dean of Students. Donna Lee Wright and her administrative assistant Leslie Rose are responsible for a multitude of campus wide projects, including Commencement.

Oh how the times have changed...

The following lists are derived from the Beloit College Mindset List for each of the classes. Listed are a few examples of what each class grew up with:

Class of 2007

- "Ctrl + Alt + Del" is as basic as "ABC."
- Computers have always fit in backpacks.
- Rock 'N Roll has always been a force for social good.
- They know who "heroes in a half shell" are.
- They knew how to pop a Popple and trade a Pog.

Class of 2008

- The Energizer bunny has always been going, and going, and going.
- Photographs have always been processed in an hour or less.
- M.A.S.H. was a game: Mansion, Apartment, Shelter, House.
- There have always been non-stop flights around the world without refueling.

Class of 2009

- They don't remember when "cut and paste" involved scissor
- "Whatever" is not part of a question but an expression of sullen rebuke.
- For daily caffeine emergencies, Starbucks has always been around the corner.
- They have grown up in a single superpower world.

Class of 2010

- They have known only two presidents.
- They grew up with virtual pets to feed, and play games with, lest they die.
- Mr. Rogers, not Walter Cronkite, has always been the most trusted man in America.
- They have always criminal justice have been separate yet groups."
